Story should be shared.

Incredibly inspiring and informative.

Great opportunity for enlightening staff and students at my school.

Immigration laws in the US need ramification.

No matter their backgrounds, people can still share a common ground.

There are different perspectives on racism, and we need to see all of them.

Immigration is a very complex problem with tons of varying perspectives.

Respect all opinions.

There are different perspectives that the news doesn't show.

Everybody had their own perspective, but we can all live together in harmony.

Many people have different views on illegal immigration into the USA, but everyone can agree the system has major faults that need to be dealt with.

There is so much more happening then we are aware of.

The different perspectives of what the main speakers have went through and still are.

Give a voice to the voiceless.

Struggles of immigrants.

It was very enlightening. Perspective is everything and this film does an excellent job at highlighting lesser-known perspectives. It creates empathy — a trait humanity needs more of.

Everyone in this country (even the world) has their own opinion and whether we agree or disagree, we must accept differences and use it to make a difference for the future generation.

Severe immigration complications and problems in the country.

That America needs to change.

Everyone has different lives they live; we shouldn't judge people just because they look different.

The different views of people with similar experiences.

Different people's opinion.

My main takeaway was that while we have differences, we need to take our experiences into account to create a solution. We come from different walks of life and need to account for that.

I learned a lot more about the topic, and it was a good reminder.
The mental stresses involved with dealing with being a DREAMER and constantly worrying about what's going to happen.
That everyone has their own reasons for their points of view and how to understand those points of view.
To think about other perspectives and common ground with people I may disagree with.
Everyone can agree that there is a need for immigration reform just disagreements on how to get to the end goal.
We are all equals, and we don't have to agree with someone's opinion to listen to them

Being able to see everyone's perspectives without any bias I felt was an amazing thing to see so everyone sees everyone's true point of view. I liked how it included different aged people to show it is an overall problem. This turned out amazing and I'm glad I was able to see this.
